

CONSERVATION KNOWS NO BORDERS

These images show the selfless manner in which Warthog Safaris, under supervision of PHASA, keep the Conservation effort alive in Africa. 6 Captive-bred lions were transported by road and air from the Free State in South Africa to the Lubango area in Angola. By rehoming these magnificent creatures to spacious wilderness areas where they may roam as free, the lion population in Angola is given a much needed increase. The effort by Warthog Safaris and PHASA was the third in a very successful tale of sustaining life and providing a second chance to these majestic creatures.
