Product Overview

From African big game to the American Grizzly Bear, Hornady's Dangerous Game ammunition provides the shooter an exceptional load with more energy transfer and lots of knockdown power. The DGS non-expanding bullet is recommended for thick-skinned game such as elephant, rhino and hippo. Its tough copper clad steel jacket is designed to provide maximum penetration from all angles on thick-skinned and heavy boned dangerous game animals. Powders are carefully matched to each load to ensure optimum pressure and velocity, and to regulate in double rifles. Like all Hornady ammunition, Dangerous Game ammunition uses the highest quality cases and primers available. Consistent components translate to consistent shooting in the field. This ammunition is new production, non-corrosive, in boxer-primed, reloadable brass cases.

The Hornady® DGS® (Dangerous Game Solid) bullets feature an advanced profile built of the toughest materials that penetrate through thick hide, dense muscle and hard bone — delivering maximum stopping power. The business end of the DGS® bullet features a wide, flat nose that delivers maximum energy upon impact, while resisting bullet deformation and deflection. Incorporating a very hard high antimony lead core with a copper-clad steel jacket, this bullet maintains integrity and overall weight retention when driving through even the toughest hide and bone. Uniform in shape and size to the DGX® (Dangerous Game™ eXpanding) bullet, you can reliably and accurately shoot both from the same firearm with little to no shift in point of aim or impact.

★★★★★ Cape Buffalo at 10 yards

Got back from Africa (Zimbabwe) today. This ammo in my Krieghoff took a massive Cape Buffalo Dagga Boy at ten yards through both shoulders (in and out) and dropped him. My PH and I were impressed with the performance. Accuracy and performance both rate five stars!

★★★★★ Back to Africa with Hornady

In 2012 I went to Zimbabwe and had problems with Hornady 375 H&H ammo (see prior review). Talked to Hornady reps and told them what happened. I went to Indy for the NRA Convention and there talked to Steve Hornady re problems. Steve told me he had heard of the problems and they had been corrected. HE WAS RIGHT!! Used this ammo recently and it is formidable both in the field and at the range. How can you not love a company where the head man listens to his customers?

★★★★★ I used this ammunition on ...

I used this ammunition on an elephant hunt in Botswana. A frontal brain shot at 16 yards killed the bull instantly. Great performance, accuracy and value!

★★★★☆ The Hornady DGS solids ...

The Hornady DGS solids are a very good value. They cost about a third the price of federal and performed fine at the range and in the field. The only one I recovered was from an elephant I shot with a side brain shot at 15 yards. It slipped it back into the opposite cheek after passing through the skull. We slipped it back into an empty case and you could not even tell it had been fired.
