BUILD YOUR RIFLE

Every Parkwest Arms rifle is built using a unique combination of traditional hand craftsmanship and high-tech manufacturing, creating a world-class firearm that is a pleasure to own and shoot. This simple attitude pervades every stage of the rifle's construction.

Starting with the selection of properly cured walnut blanks and modern alloy steels, to the hand checkered stocks and blueprinted actions. The attention to detail taken in creating America's finest custom rifle will provide you with a sense of ownership that you will not find anywhere else.

The Model 76 was developed in 1986 by expert gunsmiths Don Allen and Pete Grisel using a combination of traditional methods and cutting-edge technology. With the SD-76 Dark Continent, Parkwest Arms is pleased to carry on this legacy. The SD-76 Dark Continent rifle, which was created specifically for hunting dangerous game, has grown to be one of the most sought-after rifles in the world.

AMERICA'S FINEST FIREARM BRAND

“A once-in-a-lifetime trophy in your sight, the deep breath taken,
a gentle squeeze of the trigger, a moment etched in eternity, it's your time....

Countless hours, dedication, and pride went into that exact moment. Parkwest Arms has many parts to its whole, starting from a block of wood and a piece of steel, touched every step of the way by craftsmen who are immersed in passion, and the vision of each firearm's journey into the great wild places. Carefully created, focusing on even the most minute details, ensures that the Parkwest Arms rifle is just as much part of that moment as the trophy taken.

Every hunt and every journey,
the Parkwest Arms family is with you.”
